

References

1. Lawrence CA. Fundamentals of spun yarn technology. CRC Press, 2003, pp. 267, 449.
2. Skenderi Z, Orešković V, Perić P, Kalinovčić H. Determining yarn tension in ring spinning. Text. Res. J. 2001; 71: 343-350.
3. Barr AD, Catling H. Manual of Cotton Spinning: The Principles and Theory of Ring Spinning. Textile Institute, Manchester, England.
4. Batra SK, Ghosh TK, Zeidman MI. An Integrated Approach to Dynamic Analysis of the Ring Spinning Process Part I: Without Air Drag and Coriolis Acceleration. Text. Res. J. 1989; 59: 309-317.
5. Zhu F, Hall K, Rahn CD. Steady state response and stability of ballooning strings in air. International journal of non-linear mechanics 1998; 33: 33-46.
6. Bracewell GM, Greenhalgh K. Dynamical analysis of the spinning balloon. J. Text. I. Transactions 1953; 44: T266-T292.
7. Barr AD. A descriptive account of yarn tensions and balloon shapes in ring spinning. J. Text. I. Transactions 1958; 49: T58-T88.
8. Barr AD. the physics of yarn tensions and balloon shapes in spinning, winding and similar processes. J. Text. I. Transactions 1960; 51: T17-T38.
9. Barr AD. The Role of Air Drag in Ring Spinning. J. Text. I. Proceedings 1961; 52: P111-P111.
10. Sharma R, Rahn CD. An experimental study of ballooning yarn with a control ring. J. Text. I. 1998; 89: 621-634.
11. Tang ZX, Wang X, Fraser WB, Wang L. An experimental investigation of yarn tension in simulated ring spinning. Fibers and polymers 2004; 5: 275-279.

12. Stasiak M, Michalak M. Tribology of Three-Element: Traveller-Ring-Yarn Friction Arrangement in Ring Spinning. Reaction of Ring to Traveller in Two-Contact Configuration. Part I. Fibres & Textiles in Eastern Europe 1996; 4, 2(13): 28-33.
13. Stasiak M, Michalak M. Tribology of Three-Element, Traveller-Ring-Yarn Friction Arrangements in Ring Spinning. Reaction of Ring to Traveller in Two-Contact Interaction. Part II. Fibres & Textiles in Eastern Europe 1996; 4, 3-4(14-15): 59-61.
14. Stasiak M, Michalak M. Tribology of Three-Element Traveller-Ring-Yarn Friction Arrangement (TRY) in Ring-Spinning Frames. Part III. Ring-Traveller Interaction under Conditions of Three-Point Contact. Fibres & Textiles in Eastern Europe 1997; 5, 3(18): 42-45.
15. Stasiak M, Michalak M. The Problem of Empirical Adequacy of a Model of the Friction Trio TRY (Traveller-Ring-Yarn) under Conditions of Spindle Eccentricity on a Ring Wool-Spinning Frame. Fibres & Textiles in Eastern Europe 1998; 6, 1(20): 28-31.
16. Stasiak M, Michalak M. The Complementary Relationship Between the Dynamic and Thermal Conditions of the Friction Trio (Traveller-Ring-Yarn) and the Degree of Wear of Its Elements. Fibres & Textiles in Eastern Europe 1998; 6, 2(21): 36-38.
17. Przybył K. Dynamics of Yarn in the Process of Its Formation on the Ring-spinning Machine. Fibres & Textiles in Eastern Europe 1995; 3, 3(10): 36-38.
18. Przybył K. Modelling Yarn Tension in the Process of Manufacturing on the Ring-Spinning Machine. Fibres & Textiles in Eastern Europe 1998; 6, 3(22): 30-33.
19. Przybył K. Simulating the Dynamics of the Twisting-and-Winding System of the Ring Spinning Frame. Fibres & Textiles in Eastern Europe 2001; 9, 1(32): 16-19.
20. Przybył K. Stability of Working Conditions of the Twisting-and-Winding System of the Ring Spinning Frame in Dependence on Yarn Material. Fibres & Textiles in Eastern Europe 2001; 9, 4(35): 24-27.

21. Przybył K. Influence of Yarn Surface Properties on the Dynamic of the Twisting-and-Winding System of the Ring Spinning Frame. Fibres & Textiles in Eastern Europe 2002; 10, 2(37): 27- 31.
22. Przybył K. Stable Working Conditions of the Twisting-and-Winding System of a Ring Spinning Frame. Fibres & Textiles in Eastern Europe 2005, 13, 1(49) 35-38.
23. Przybył K. Influence of changes in Yarn Twist on the Dynamics of Yarn Motion During Spinning on a Ring Spinning Machine. Fibres & Textiles in Eastern Europe 2008, 16, 2(67) 23-26.
24. Klein W. Die Spinngeometrie und ihre Bedeutung. Int. Textile Bull. 1993; 39.
25. Bühler G, Schenkel E. Können ringspinnmaschinen schneller spinnen und trotzdem weniger Fadenbrüche haben? Melliand Textilber 1974; 55: 91-100.
26. Sonntag E. Einsatz computerunterstützter Messtechnik zur Systemanalyse des Ringspinnprozesses, Teil I: Die Sensorik. Melliand Textilber 1993; 74: 1207-1212.
27. Sonntag E. Einsatz computerunterstützter Messtechnik zur Systemanalyse des Ringspinnprozesses, Teil II: Die Messsignalverarbeitung. Melliand Textilber 1994; 75: 223-350.
28. Sonntag E. Einsatz computerunterstützter Messtechnik zur Systemanalyse des Ringspinnprozesses, Teil III: Messungen an einer Hochgeschwindigkeitsringspinnmaschine. Melliand Textilber 1994; 75: 350-354.
29. Lünenschloß J, Bünger, CM. Neues Verfahren zur Ermittlung der Fadenzugkraft in der Aufwindezone beim Ringspinnen bzw. Ringzwirn. Melliand Textilberichte 1984; 5: 297-299.
30. Tang ZX, Wang L, Fraser WB, Wang X. In-situ tensile properties of a ballooning staple yarn. Text. Res. J. 2009; 79: 548-554.
31. Fraser WB. On the Theory of Ring spinning. Philosophical transactions Royal Society London 1993; 342: 439-468.

32. Hossain M, Telke Ch, Abdkader A, Cherif Ch and Beitelschmidt M. Modelling and simulation of yarn path using sensitivity analysis in the spinning process. In: 15th AUTEX World Textile Conference, 2015, June10-12, 2015, Bucharest, Romania.
33. <http://imagej.nih.gov/ij/> (accessed 06.07.2015).
34. Hossain M, Abdkader A, Cherif C, et al. Innovative twisting mechanism based on superconducting technology for higher productivity in ring spinning machine. Text. Res. J. 2014; 84: 871-880.
35. Hossain M, Abdkader A, Cherif C, Berger D, Fuchs G, Schultz L. High performance ring spinning using superconducting magnetic bearing system. In: 13th AUTEX World Textile Conference, 2013.